V. P. I. PLAYS NAVY TO-DAY

Coach Bocock Has Turned Out a Fast Team.

The V. P. I. football squad, consisting of about twenty players, was in the city yesterday morning and for an hour lined up on Georgetown Field, running through a light signal practice. The men are in charge of Branch Bocock, an old Georgetown man, who played on the varsity for three years, capturing the eleven in 1905. As a coach, Bocock has had great success, especially at V. P. I., where he has regularly turned out a winning team since taking the position at this institution.

This afternoon the Virginians go up against the Redskins, and while they are not confident of victory, still they intend to put up a hard fight. They average about 370, and Bocock has instilled into them lots of snap, and it would not be at all surprising if they downed the Redskins.

Next Saturday this team goes up against Washington and Lee, who were defeated so decisively last Saturday by Georgetown, and although the Hilltoppers do not meet V. P. I. still it will give an estimate of their relative strength, as both will be strong contenders for the Southern championship.

The first balloon ascent was made in 1782.

FOURTH OF SERIES BOOKED FOR TO-DAY

Peerless Leader of the Cubs Still Has Hopes.

SEES GOOD OMEN IN RAIN

Chance Declares Breathing Spell Yesterday Will Help His Chicago Club—Looks Like King Cole and Chief Bender on the Firing Line, and Battle Royal Is Predicted.

By I. E. SANBORN,
Chicago Tribune Baseball Expert.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Big Chief Storm Clouds came to the rescue of the Cubs to-day by postponing the fourth game of the world's series with the Athletics. Last this is construed as an ill-natured knock, we hasten to add that it does not necessarily imply the Cubs would have been beaten by Big Chief Bender again to-day if the other chief had not intervened. It means merely that the Cubs' chances to stem the tide of defeat were brightened by the day of rest accorded all hands.

It gave Chance's badly battered warriors time to look around and pull themselves together, and perhaps regain the stride out of which the tremendous onrush of the enemy knocked them. It gave Connie Mack's fast thoroughbreds time to cool out a lot and perhaps lose a bit of their high speed. "You never can tell in baseball," while the odds against the National League champions are long, they were shortened rather than lengthened by the breathing spell given the combatants.

The rainstorm also headed off a possible location in the hands of every man connected with the series by wiping out the original schedule, and with it the frenzied railroad jumps which would have been entailed if the Cubs had won to-day.

Instead of having to make a sixteen-hour run to Philadelphia if the Cubs should win to-morrow, the new schedule compelled by the rain allows the teams to remain in Chicago for the third game Sunday. That would permit three games to be played on Cub grounds without any intervening on the Athletic grounds.

Fifth Game Sunday.

The new order of affairs calls for the fourth game of the series to be played here to-morrow, weather permitting. Then, if a Cub victory makes a fifth game necessary, it is booked for the West Side Sunday. In case the Athletics still lack their fourth victory after Sunday's game, the sixth game will not be played until Tuesday in Philadelphia. That would allow time for a safe and sane jump to the Quaker town during Sunday night and Monday. If it should rain again to-morrow, making further postponement of the fourth game necessary, it will be played here on Sunday. In that case a victory for the Cubs would carry the fifth game of the series over to Tuesday in Philadelphia, and if the pennant was not decided in five games, still another deal might be required. This application of the "if" might be carried on indefinitely, but sufficient unto the day is the announcement that the fourth game is booked for to-morrow, and that the clubs will remain here until that is played off, anyway.

To-day in the Cub camp there was gloom, quite naturally, but no despondency. Manager Chance and his men passed the day quietly, receiving encouragement from many friends whom their adversity culled out of the thousands who have been noisy boosters during their prosperity. Part of the day was passed in listening and receiving by mail knocks and roasts from many of those who have boosted hardest. That was the most discouraging aspect of the series to the Cubs. They have not quit, but their supporters seem to have done so en masse.

Cole Is Cubs' Choice.

Manager Chance practically decided to give King Cole's luck a trial in to-morrow's game and to hold Brown in reserve, instead of sending Mordecai in to the last ditch where he has stood so often without failing the team. He may change his mind before the battle begins.

Both teams are going after this fourth game for all they are worth. The Athletics, confident of being able to win the championship, want to clinch it at the earliest possible moment and take no chances. To that end Manager Mack probably will send Chief Bender to the slab to-morrow, and the Cubs and try to repeat his performance of Monday. Mack believes, and the Athletics believe, Bender can do it.

Postponement of to-day's game on account of rain brought considerable relief to the Cubs. They were not to play until the umpires Sheridan and Connolly were sent over to the ball park to inspect the grounds. They found them too soft for play even if the rain should cease by game time. If it is only a delusion, hope now that the Cubs will be able to stop the Athletics.

CHANGE IN C. U. SCHEDULE.

No Game To-day, but One Pending with Mount St. Joseph's.

The past week has been devoted to hard practice at Catholic University, where, under competent coaching, a fast and well-drilled team is being developed.

Owing to injuries sustained last Saturday in the game with Maryland Agricultural College, it was necessary to cancel the game for to-day with St. John's. Another change in the schedule has taken place. Washington College plays Maryland Agricultural College next Friday, so the game with the Brooklands scheduled for Wednesday has been called off. However, Manager Carter has been negotiating with Mount St. Joseph's College, of Baltimore, to fill this date, the game to be played on University Field.

From the form shown in practice recently, the wearers of the Red and Black will be shown something in the football way that will verify the predictions which have been made about the material on hand.

At present the squad which reports to the coaches daily is the largest in the history of the university, and the prospects of going through the remainder of the schedule successfully are exceedingly bright.

YANKEES BEATEN BY MATHEWSON

Giants Champions of New York, Taking Last Game.

ERRORS HELP THE WINNERS

Doyle Drives Out Home Run with Two Men on Bases—Four Fumbles Out Game for Warhop—Rain Hurts Attendance—Weather Is Cold—Misunderstanding About Grounds.

New York, Oct. 21.—Christopher Mathewson occupied the box for the Giants at the Polo Grounds to-day, and because of his steady pitching McGraw's men not only defeated the Highlanders by 6 to 3, but also captured the deciding game in the last post-season series. Mathewson, therefore, scored his fourth victory. He pitched an even game, three whole games, and saved his team from possible defeat when he came to the rescue of young Drucker in another contest. Mathewson was touched up for ten hits by the Highlanders to-day, but he was the same old puzzle free ticket, and struck out eight men. A home run by Capt. Doyle, with two runners on the bases in the third inning, helped to defeat the American League, while errors by Chase, Knight, and Hemphill were directly responsible for the other runs scored by the Giants.

Warhop's wildness and poor judgment proved a big handicap for the Highlanders to overcome, while Ford's support after he went to the mound in the fifth inning was anything but brilliant. One of the Highlanders' runs was the result of clean and consecutive hitting, while the others were attributed to an error by Doyle and a wild pitch.

The weather was cold and threatening up to the time play began, so that although the sun came out then the attendance was not very large. The crowd to the crowds recorded in the previous games. According to the agents of the national commission, to-day's game should have been played at the Hilltop, per an agreement between Messrs. Brush and Farrell before the series began, but there seems to have been some sort of a misunderstanding, with the result that the game was decided at the Polo Grounds, high the understanding that in the event of a defeat for the Giants the play-off would have occurred to-morrow at American League Park.

As the series resulted, the teams played seven games, one a draw, four of which were at the Polo Grounds and three at the Hilltop.

ST. JOHN'S PLAYERS HATCHETTES TODAY

Annapolis Boys Have Best Team in School's History.

The only football game of importance in Washington to-day will be played at the American League Park at 3:30 o'clock when George Washington lines up against the strong team from St. John's College, of Annapolis.

Inasmuch as Georgetown is playing in suits last night, the down-town boys will have everything their own way in regard to football attractions, and therefore they should be rewarded by a good attendance.

The Georgetown followers who have not seen the Blue team in action may take advantage of their team's absence to get a line on the team, which it is hoped, will meet Georgetown before the close of the season to determine the championship of the District, if not the entire South.

St. John's College boasts the best team in the history of the Annapolis institution and will bring a goodly crowd of rooters to the game.

The team will also be strengthened by the playing of Moore, the husky new full back.

Both Navy and the University of Virginia have been held to comparatively close scores by the Annapolis boys, and they are sure to show up well to-day against G. W. U., as they are in prime condition.

BUSINESS LOSES TO TECH, 6 TO 0

Only One Touchdown Scored on Stenographers.

MORRIS AND SCOTT THE STARS

Broken Field Running by Both Teams Feature Contest—First Time in History of School that Tech Has Not Made a Higher Score. Game Is Bitterly Fought.

Technical High School defeated Business 6 to 0 yesterday in the second game of the Interhigh School series. The contest, as was predicted proved to be bitterly fought and exciting.

Never before in the history of high school football has Business been able to make such a showing against the Training School lads, and the plucky Orange and Blue team deserves great credit for its gameness.

The real score of the game was Morris 6, Business 0, for Tech's chunky right half back was the only man on the team able to make consistent gains. Morris simply could not be stopped. His end runs were easily the feature of the hard-fought battle.

An interesting point in football was brought out at the close of the third period. A forward pass after the field judge's whistle had blown netted a touchdown. Referee Gass allowed the score, but later changed his decision. According to the rules, play cannot be stopped until the referee's whistle blows, and Gass admitted that he could not fish into his pocket and pull out the whistle before the ball was over the line. He therefore argued that it would be manifestly unfair to Business to allow the score, as the required period had fully elapsed.

Play was confined almost entirely to Business territory, although the Stenographers' goal was only threatened three times. On the other hand, Business never got within striking distance of the Machinists' goal, but frequently held their opponents for downs and often made the required distance in three tries.

It was the Stenographers' fighting spirit that pleased their rooters and alighted. Every man was in the contest to the limit, and played the game for all he was worth.

Scott and Rathbone, in the back field, were the stars, while Zappone, at guard, put up one of the best defensive games ever seen in a high school battle. He frequently broke through and stopped end runs, and once tackled Morris after the latter had broken through the entire Business team, averting a sure touchdown.

Bridget, the Stenographers' right end, and Wilson, the lanky tackle, were also very much in evidence.

The game opened with Tech kicking to Bridget, who ran the ball back 7 yards. Scott took up the burden and made 7 yards around the end, and Rathbone made the first down. Rathbone then made 3 yards through the line, but Molline slipped on the wet grass and lost what Rathbone had gained. Scott punted to Thrall, who ran the ball back 5 yards.

Thrall fumbled on the next play, but Holbrook recovered the ball and Tew punted to Scott, who ran the ball back 7 yards. The Blacksmiths held Business for downs.

Thrall went around and ran the ball back 10 yards. Morris, for Tech, carried the ball within 5 yards of the Stenographers' line, but was stopped by the Blacksmiths.

Bridget took the ball around the end, but was downed after a short gain. Scott punted to Thrall, who ran the ball back 10 yards. Morris, for Tech, carried the ball within 5 yards of the Stenographers' line, but was stopped by the Blacksmiths.
